LETTER FROM THE CHIEF

Dear Collectors,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you for supporting the United Nations Postal Administration (UNPA).

United Nations stamps are more than just postage stamps. They are miniature works of art that send important messages around the globe, highlighting the important work of the Organization. Since 1951, United Nations stamps have educated people about topics such as human rights, the environment, climate, global health, endangered species, World Heritage sites and many other subjects of universal concern.

Looking back at this year’s stamp programme, UNPA continued its mission to educate by celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of CITES with Endangered Species stamps; showcasing artwork from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) collection for World Art Day; highlighting the importance of coral reefs for World Oceans Day; featuring Frankie the Dinosaur in addressing world leaders to take action against climate change; informing the public about the practices of taijiquan, calligraphy and guqin for the Body, Mind and Soul stamp issue; promoting UNESCO World Heritage sites of Türkiye; and educating people about World Mental Health Day.

Looking ahead to 2024, UNPA will continue its very popular Flag and Endangered Species stamp issues; promote sport for peace for the Olympic Games in Paris; showcase World Heritage sites in the Republic of Korea; feature modern transportation; educate people about the International Day of Older Persons; and issue the third series of United Nations Crypto stamps and much more.

United Nations stamps are truly unique pieces of art with invaluable history and meaning. Each one tells a story that contributes greatly to the visual legacy of UNPA and the United Nations.

We sincerely appreciate your continued support and loyalty to the United Nations stamp programme,

Thanawat Amnajan
Chief
United Nations Postal Administration

Heritage is our legacy from the past, what we live with today, and what we pass on to future generations. Our cultural and natural heritage are both irreplaceable sources of life and inspiration.

UNESCO seeks to encourage the identification, protection and preservation of cultural and natural heritage around the world considered to be of outstanding value to humanity. This is embodied in an international treaty called the Convention Concerning the Protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage, adopted by UNESCO in 1972.

For over 25 years, UNPA has issued stamps featuring UNESCO World Heritage sites. For the 2023 series, UNPA features six sites in Türkiye.

After a devastating earthquake struck Syria and Türkiye earlier in the year, the United Nations pledged its support and assistance to these countries. UNPA hopes that these stamps will bring awareness to the importance of the protection and preservation of these beautiful sites, in addition to showing its solidarity to the country and people of Türkiye.

WORLD MENTAL HEALTH DAY

Item No. 301.5800

Item No. 501.5801

Item No. 701.5802

The United Nations recognizes World Mental Health Day each year on 10 October to raise awareness about the importance of mental health and to support those living with mental health conditions. The theme for 2023 is "Mental Health is a Universal Human Right".

Mental health is an integral part of our general health and well-being is a basic human right. Having good mental health means we are better able to connect, function, cope and thrive. However, people living with mental health conditions often experience human rights violations, discrimination, and stigma. The result is that millions of people around the world suffer in silence and are greatly affected in their daily lives.

The World Health Organization (WHO) estimates that 1 in 8 people across the world live with a mental health condition. Despite the prevalence of mental health conditions in countries around the world, most societies neglect mental health and do not provide the care and support people need and deserve. While mental health conditions can be effectively treated at a relatively low cost, the gap between people needing care and those with access to care remains substantial, and effective treatment coverage remains extremely low.

World Mental Health Day is an opportunity to strengthen our shared commitment in making mental health a priority, where anyone can exercise their human rights and access affordable, quality mental health care and where everyone can participate fully in society free from stigma and discrimination.

MARIE CURIE

GENEVA DEFINITIVE STAMP

On 7 November 2023, UNPA will issue a CHF 2,30 stamp to honour Marie Curie. The quote on the stamp, which is in French, reads as follows:

"Nothing in life is to be feared, it is only to be understood"

The CHF 2,30 stamp is part of a definitive stamp series illustrated by Martin Mörck (Norway).

Marie Curie is best known for her pioneering research in radioactivity and her discovery of two elements, polonium and radium. She was the first woman to receive a Nobel Prize, the first person to receive a Nobel Prize twice, and the only person to receive a Nobel Prize in two scientific fields.

Born Marya Skłodowska in Warsaw, Poland on 7 November 1867, she was the youngest of five children. Despite her family's poverty and limited access to scientific education, combined with the fact that she was a woman, Marie overcame many obstacles to pursue her passion and her scientific career.

In 1891, she went to Paris to study physics and mathematics at the Sorbonne. It was there she met Pierre Curie, professor at the School of Physics, where they worked together researching radioactivity. They were married in 1895.

In 1903, Marie and Pierre Curie, jointly with Henri Becquerel, were awarded the Nobel Prize for Physics, for their combined, though separate, work on radioactivity, a term Curie coined herself. In the same year, Marie was awarded her doctorate in physics.

After her husband's death in 1906, she took over his professorship at the Sorbonne, becoming the institution's first female professor.

In 1911, Marie Curie received a second Nobel Prize in Chemistry for her discovery (along with her husband) of two new elements: radium and polonium (named after her homeland).

Marie Curie's research laid the foundation for modern nuclear science, from X-rays to radiotherapy for treating cancer. She stood out not only for her brilliant talent and dedication, but also for inspiring women and girls in science.

UNITED NATIONS CLIMATE CHANGE CONFERENCE (COP 28)

CLIMATE ACTION SUPERHEROES

NEW YORK/GENEVA SPECIAL EVENT SHEET

Item No. 395.5804

On 30 November 2023, UNPA will issue a special event sheet for the United Nations Climate Change Conference (COP 28), held in the United Arab Emirates from 30 November to 12 December 2023. There are two denominations on the sheet of 10 stamps that feature the United Nations logo. There are five $1.45 stamps on the left half of the sheet and five CHF 1,10 on the right of the sheet. The tabs of the stamps feature the United Nations Climate Action Superheroes.

Empowering children to be heroic leaders for change and believe in the impact they can have on the planet is crucial. The United Nations Climate Action Superheroes aim to educate and engage children on how to help limit global warming and take care of our environment. To learn more, please visit www.un.org/sustainabledevelopment/climate-action-superheroes-info/#greenguide.

The tabs on the left of the sheet represent the following Climate Action Superheroes:

Truth Talker – Has the facts about climate change and tells others about it

Veggie Vindicator – Educates everyone on why to eat – and appreciate – more veggies

Recycle Ranger – Knows proper recycling techniques and shows others what items belong in which bin

Green Guide – Keeps plants healthy and doesn't let them go to waste

The tabs on the right of the sheet represent the following Climate Action Superheroes:

Fashion Fixer – Mends, donates and keeps clothing

Water Wizard – Keeps dangerous plastics from getting into the ocean and makes sure you don't let water go to waste

Energy Expert – Never wastes electricity, and always turns off the lights when they're not needed

Fume Fighter – Defender of clean air and protecting the atmosphere from bad fumes

Customers with standing order requirements for special event sheets will automatically receive this item through their accounts. All other customers can purchase this special event sheet in either mint or cancelled condition by using the order form attached to this bulletin. Please note that this item can be purchased as a half sheet (either left or right) if desired.
